History of Post 9612

Post 9612 was originally chartered during 1948 in Yokohama. (*Historians note) The Post failed and the Charter was pulled by VFW National Headquarters. In 1951 a group of Seabee's, displaying their famous "Can Do" attitude, re-established the Post at the Naval Air Station Atsugi, Japan. In February 1952 it was re-chartered as Yates- Gonzales Memorial Post 9612. Research indicates that Yates and Gonzales were two Seabee's who died during the construction of the communications station at Kamiseya, located near NAS Atsugi. [1]

*Historian's Note – During this period there was a great deal of animosity between the recipients of the Asian-Pacific Campaign Medal and the Asian Occupation Forces. Both were eligible for admission into the VFW but the combat and island hopping veterans felt the occupation forces were unworthy and subsequently blackballed them from admission to a local Post. As a result these rejected individuals attempted to start their own Post, but owing to their lack of administrative and procedural knowledge they soon found themselves in trouble with National and as a result had their Charter pulled.

[1] The Naval Air Station Atsugi was later designated a Naval Air Facility
